

Man and the First Sin

Continued from Page 3

Many of them we have already learned. We know that lying is against God's commandment. We know that stealing is wrong. We know that it is wrong to disobey our parents. We may know what is right and wrong, but when we purposely do those wrong things we are making a decision, as did Adam and Eve, to disobey God.

We can see how Adam and Eve ruined their relationship with God and hurt themselves, but too often we do the same. We may think that what the first man and woman did was more serious than our disobedience to God's commandments; however, our sin is a serious sin in God's eyes. Sin is against God. It hurts us and others around us, as did the first sin.

The Wages of Sin ...

Continued from Page 1

head of the table, and the guest was seated within it.

Horror of horrors! The feast might have been rich, but the guest was miserable. However splendid might be the array of the servants, and however rich the dainties, yet he who had been invited sat there in agony. For what reason? Because over his head hung a sword; a furbished sword, suspended by a single hair. He had to sit all the time with this sword above him, with nothing but a hair between him and death. You may conceive the poor man's misery. He could not escape; he had to sit where he was. How could he feast? How could he rejoice!

My unconverted hearer, thou art today in a similar position. You have all thy riches and thy wealth before thee, and with the comforts of a home and the joys of a household. You are in a place from which thou canst not escape. The sword of death hangs above thee. It is prepared to descend; and woe unto thee, when it shall cleave thy soul from thy body. Canst thou yet make mirth, and yet procrastinate? If thou canst, then verily thy sin is presumptuous in a high degree.

The Bible View

A free publication from: www.OpenThouMineEyes.com Vol.: 489

Man and the First Sin

Bill Brinkworth

Sin's first commission is the one event that changed the history of man. Genesis 2-3 details what the first sin was, and how it affected the first people on this earth and all following generations. Here is the biblical account of the first sin:

God made man from the dust of the ground. We find that when God made man, His creation was placed in a Garden, which was probably created on the third day. The garden was called the Garden of Eden (Gen. 2:8). The Garden was most likely located east of the Mediterranean Sea and West of the Persian Gulf. Although the exact spot is not known today, it was near the Euphrates River of today joined by three ancient rivers.

We also find one important detail about God's prize creation, man. We learn of one feature that the man had that no other creature that God created had. The first man was Adam, and he was created as a living soul (Gen. 2:7)

"And the LORD God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." Gen. 2:7

Adam was immediately given responsibilities by his Creator. Some of the man's jobs were to take care of the Garden God gave him (Gen. 2:15) and to name the animals (Gen. 2:19-20).

Continued on Page 2

The Wages of Sin Loomed Overhead

C. H. Spurgeon

I am reminded of the story of Dionysius, the tyrant. He wished to punish one who had displeased him. He invited him to a noble feast.

Rich were the foods that were spread upon the table and rare the wines of which he was invited to drink. A chair was placed at the

Continued on Page 4

www.OpenThouMineEyes.com

is a resource containing: Sermon and Sunday school lessons, biblical-based studies, articles and puzzles, Bible View archives, and a daily devotional.

Man and the First Sin

Continued from Page 1

The first man was also given his first commandment from His Creator. Although Adam could eat of any of the fruits in the Garden, he was forbidden to eat of the “Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil” (Gen. 2:17). Adam was warned that if he ate of the forbidden tree’s fruit, he would die!

“But of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die.” Gen. 2:17

We do not know what kind of fruit it bore. It could have been an apple, a pear, or some exotic fruit. Most people imagine the fruit was an apple only because that is what an artist painted many years ago. The Bible does not tell us what kind of fruit it was.

Although the other animals had companions, man had none. God saw that it was not good that man was alone (Gen. 2:18). Then God put Adam to sleep and took from him one of his ribs (Gen. 2:16). God closed up the incision on the man’s side, and from that rib made Adam a companion. When God brought what He had made to Adam, the man called her “Woman”, which means “she was taken from Man” (Gen. 2:23). Now Adam had someone with whom he could share his life and work. They were husband and wife (Gen. 2:25). They were naked and were not ashamed of it.

In the Garden, there was a deceitful, and crafty (“subtil”) serpent. This snake did not slither on its belly as we see them do today (Gen. 3:14), and it talked (Gen. 3:1). Perhaps, at the time, other creatures in the Garden also talked.

The sneaky serpent was Satan (Rev. 12:9). We know that the serpent was Satan as he is called a serpent in Rev. 12:9. Throughout the Bible we see Satan’s intervention as one who tries to get man to do contrary to what God commands not to do, and he also is a deceiver (I Chron. 21:1, II Cor. 11:3, Rev. 20:2, 10).

Satan had a plan to get man and his wife to break God’s commandment. He got Eve to question what it was that God actually commanded Adam not to do.

“Now the serpent was more subtil than any beast of the field which the LORD God had made. And he said unto the woman, Yea, hath God said, Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden?” Gen. 3:1.

The serpent’s ploy was confusing Eve, as she had only heard God’s commandment indirectly from Adam. She incorrectly re-iterated to Satan what God had said to Adam, God never told Adam not to touch the tree. Adam was to tend (“dress”) the trees, so he had probably come in contact with the tree. He was told not to eat of the fruit of the tree.

“And the woman said unto the serpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden: 3 But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, Ye shall not eat of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die.” Gen. 3:2-3.

Satan continued with his deception. He got Eve to think that God was not telling the truth, and that she surely would not die if she ate of the tree (Gen. 3:4). The enemy of God advanced his attack by convincing Eve that God did not want them to eat the fruit because if they did they would know good and evil and be as “gods”. She was also tempted with the idea that she could be like God.

“For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil.” Gen. 3:5

Eve fell for Satan’s trickery. She ate of the fruit and gave it to Adam to eat. Although it was the woman that was deceived, Adam also partook of the fruit. That brief moment of his disobedience to the commandment of God changed his and Eve’s life, and the world and much that was in it. It was the biggest disaster that ever happened to the world! The first sin was committed.

”And Adam was not deceived, but the woman being deceived was in the transgression.” I Tim. 2:14

Sin is the most destructive activity on this earth. It has ruined, destroyed, changed, and shortened lives. Sin has broken hearts, sent countless millions of souls to Hell, separated man from God, and had many other disastrous results. Because of Adam and Eve’s disobedience, sin was now in the world! The world would never be the same!

The Tree of Knowledge of Good and Evil did not have to be there. God put it there for a reason. It was an opportunity for Man and his wife to trust God and do what He had commanded. There was always and will always be temptation to do wrong. It is always up to individuals to make the right decisions and not submit to temptation.

Although we have not walked and talked with God in person, as did Adam and Eve and heard directly from Him, we still have commandments that we should obey. The Bible is the source where we can learn all His commandments.

Continued on Page 4

“If God put Adam out of the earthly Eden on account of one sin, do you think He will let us into the Paradise above with our tens of thousands sins upon us?” — D. L. Moody